Dedication

The graduating class of 1967 dedicates this yearbook to Mr. Harold M. Ladd, retired Superintendent of the Monson School System.
We wish to recognize his twenty-six years of faithful service to our schools . . .
to extend to him our appreciation
for his contributions . . .
and to wish him abundant happiness
and good health in his retirement.

Foreword

A school yearbook is, as the name suggests, a book of events which occur during a given year at a given school. It is a dignified scrapbook of all that goes on from September to June, catching students at work, at play, shooting for the winning basket, painting murals for the prom, baking cakes for the open house tea, and finally, if the students are seniors, walking solemnly for the last time into the auditorium, there to receive a diploma and begin a new life.

It is a mirror reflecting everything which is part of the school year, a mirror whose value increases as the years speed away, until it becomes a priceless guide back through the years of a time of fun, happiness, and youth.

In this yearbook we have tried to construct a mirror reflecting the past year, its events and the people who were part of them. The staff hopes the mirror will continue to reflect long after the events fade into memory.

You have ambition to do something great for your fellow man. Of course you have! You are not a mere animal whose bodily hungers and personal safety furnish life's great concern. You have a spark of the divine, you want to help, you want to do something worthy.

And you should pursue something great, some magnificient obsession. You may tell it only to your most intimate friend, or keep it in your innermost soul; but it is there, and you are better for it.

Never fail to follow the gleam!

But neither should you forget that you have a tremendous influence all the time with all whom you come in contact. Sheep follow sheep. The world's wisest man likened us to sheep and we marvel at the aptness of the expression. You may think no one follows you. You think some even snub or belittle you. That could be--and it could be jealousy or frustration or insecurity on the other person's part.

The greatness of this school is not just the architecture or the equipment--not even the curriculum--valuable as that is; but the greatness of this school is its spirit. The cheering at the contests is part of this spirit--but not the big part. The spirit of fair play and sportsmanship--whether on the playing field or in the halls and classroom--is a part of it. The influence and personality of the faculty may mean more to you than the grade you make--the spirit of inquiry and critical thinking--of determination and purpose of effort and persistence of ambition and self-sacrifice--a wonderful combination the habit of work--all these things are in you.

They are your influence--never let it be sullied or low. You are needed and will be needed in days and years to come. Propose never to be unworthy of your school--your opportunities for influence. You've no idea how many sheep may be following you.

Freshman Reception

"Jailhouse Rock" was held September 16, 1966. The seniors began training their inferiors well. The reception began with the seniors putting convict-type hats on each of their victims; the freshmen then marched timidly two-by-two into the gymnasium.

Each senior chose a freshman with whom to dance the first number in the traditional Monson High manner. Then the fun began, which Kenneth Harvey's picture proves. His smile stretches from ear to ear as he models his fashionable mini-skirt. Earl Chaffee welcomes some of the class of '71 as he feeds them delicate Kosher pickles. The seniors saved the loveliest creation of all for Paul Raymond.

The freshmen suffered through their initiation good-naturedly. We know that for all its harassment, the Freshman Reception was a wonderful, warm beginning to four of the happiest years of their lives.

This is what you would call blind man's waltz.

Richard Defoe just talked his way into another paddling.

Would you believe a crepe paper jail?

The gym leaks, but this is ridiculous!

Joe Donovan is right up on swimming fashions with his flowered hat and madras sport jacket.

The Many Faces of School

These girls show how physically fit they are on the modern equipment in the gymnasium.

Donald Gavin working at his controls in the boiler room.

Snow Sculptures

Although the calendar read March, the weather was more suited to May. Despite this spring-like weather, we managed to complete the four class sculptures with the aid of trucked-in snow. Each class pitched in to make its sculptures a success, for every member of each class wanted the trophy.

The entries were:

Seniors--"The Old Lady in the Shoe"
Juniors--"Incident at Monson"
Sophomores--"Snoopy on His Doghouse"
Freshmen--"Bell, Book, and Candle"

Cheering International

One highlight of the Winter Carnival was an International Pep Rally. The Varsity and Junior Varsity Cheerleaders combined forces to bring the student body original cheers from many lands. Those nations represented were: Japan, Africa, Poland, France, Italy, Russia, and Mars! It was the perfect way to end the day and send the basketball team off with high hopes for the game that night with Belchertown.

Winter Carnival

Our first Winter Carnival was a success. The participation of the entire school in both the snow sculpturing and the choosing of the king and queen reflected total school spirit. Queen Patricia Leonard and King John Malo are shown in front of the prize-winning sculpture, the Junior's "Incident at Monson." Members of the Queen's Court were: Colleen Lynch, Kathleen Colleton, Dorothy Donovan, and Jane Sullivan. Members of the King's Court were: Arthur Colling, Dennis Haley, Joseph Donovan, and Stephan Newland.

Cinderella's Ball

Cinderella's Ball was held on February 19, 1966. Our class diligently prepared for it all week. All of our work paid off--decorations, refreshments, coronation--all spelled success. The big moment came that night when Judith Brown was crowned queen by Arthur Colling. The lucky members of her court were: Emelda Tassinari, Kathleen Colleton, Catherine Trombly, and Constance Hale. No one will forget the magic and enchantment of that entire night.
